

Westview Group Assails Pacifica Officials

By LOIS McNALLY

A charge that the city of Pacifica has failed to take vigorous action in following through on promises to help Westview residents was made at council meeting last week.

Emory Lebonville, outspoken leader in the Westview Improvement club, said "some of the prime problems that we were promised would be attacked immediately are still existing and some have become more acute."

Lebonville, who took city officials on a tour of his area last fall to point out problems of dumping and deterioration, said that to date Westviewers have received "some positive actions and a lot of promises."

He was particularly irate about an unused horse trail between homes on Inverness and Heathcliff that he called a "pig pen."

On October 15, 1962, he said the Westview Improvement club held a volunteer clean-up campaign and cleared more than seven truckloads of junk and trash from the trail. On a recent visit, Lebonville said he found the trail littered with many new piles of trash.

Lebonville told the council that a home on Kavanaugh street, pointed out during the fall tour because of an immense pile of scrap iron and junk, has further deteriorated and has now become "a full-fledged dump with paper, boxes, old furniture and garbage attracting rats, producing a fire hazard, health hazard and an eye sore to the surrounding neighbors."

He also urged the city to condemn another home on Kavanaugh that has been abandoned for a year, and which he charged is in an advanced state of deterioration and has become a youth gang hideout.

Lebonville listed seven areas in his complaint to city councilmen. He also urged investigation of some real estate sales practices in the Westview subdivision.

He recommended a re-working of City Ordinance 55, controlling the dumping of debris, litter and garbage, to make it more effective. And he charged that "if we are to continue under the present system, Pacifica will become one big dump or pig pen."

Lebonville thanked the city for three specific actions:

Assignment of a foot patrolman to Westview for a month.

Re-scheduling of street cleaning by the Public Works department.

Planting of 100 trees by the Park, Beach and Recreation department.

Among the accomplishments of police, said Lebonville, were the towing away of abandoned autos, lowering of delinquency, encouraging residents to clean up their property and prompt answering of complaints.

Lebonville told the council he was not representing the Westview Improvement club but speaking as an individual.

He was accompanied by two other officers of the club, President Rex Muller and Treasurer Robert Duplessis, who said they concurred with his remarks.

Duplessis urged action by the city to stop people from conducting businesses from their homes in violation of city ordinances. He cited a Westview concrete mixing and junk yard, and a home with 15 washing machines under repair in its garage and five more in the driveway.

City Manager Karl Baldwin told the council that a combined inspection team of building, health, public works and fire department personnel had been successful in inspecting Westview homes and investigating complaints but that "a few violators were causing particular difficulties."

City Attorney Conrad Reich reported that he was planning legal action against one real estate broker who has failed to comply with city requests to clean up his properties.

Mayor George Mason said that a recent tour of Westview indicated to him a "considerable improvement" and that residents were taking a personal interest in painting and cleaning up their property. He pledged continued co-operation by the city on improvement efforts.

$200,000 IN LOOT

Coast Residents Play a Key Role In Theft Arrests

Two Pacifica residents, both keen-eyed and one with a rifle at the ready, put an end Sunday to one of the most lucrative and baffling series of jewel, money and fur burglaries in recent Bay Area history.

A roomful of loot, totaling about $200,000 in value, was immediately linked to four cases and expected to solve many more, police said.

Bob St. Clair 'Is Doing Fine'

Councilman Robert St. Clair was walking around the hospital with a leg cast "doing fine," according to a report from St. Mary's hospital yesterday.

"He should be going home soon," the hospital spokesman said.

St. Clair was operated on for a severed achilles tendon by orthopedic surgeon Dr. John J. Loutzenheiser two weeks ago.

St. Clair was injured playing football for the San Francisco 49ers around mid-October.

The citizen heroes are Robert Fizer, 235 Reichling street, Vallejo, and Anthony Gaidos, 220 Ramona way, two blocks away.

They Were Neighbors

Fizer noticed pictures in the paper of two burglary suspects. He recognized them as his neighbors, and imparted this information to Pacifica Police Sgt. Robert Greer.

Meanwhile, San Francisco police had learned that the suspects, Richard W. Lewis and Patricia Nadine York, had disappeared after posting bail and giving phony addresses. They swiftly called on the Lewis home at 241 Reichling.

Miss York answered the door, and stalled the officers five minutes by saying she was dressing. Then she opened it a crack, saying, "What in the hell do you guys want now?"

Makes Break

What they wanted went out the rear window at about the same time, and brought a shout from Pacifica Patrolman Mel Nelson who had been stationed in the rear.

"Hey, the guys making a break out the window."

Lewis, clad in shoes, coat and pants, but no shirt or socks, could be seen sprinting for the hills above the subdivision.

San Francisco police Inspector Jack O'Keefe fired a warning shot, but Lewis only ran faster.

Then Gaidos came to the rescue. He was working in his front yard.

"I saw the police were chasing someone and since I was closer to the guy than they were, I ran and got my rifle," he explains.

Gaidos captured Lewis in the 300 block of Reina Del Mar.

When Nelson searched the suspect he found a small container in his right breast pocket. In it were $20,000 in $100 and $20 bills.

Lewis' wallet contained another $5480 in bills of the same two denominations.

In his pants pocket was $1.50 in change.

In the Pacifica dwelling were furs, jewelry, silver, cameras, watches, television sets and "a lot else," one officer said.

There were a well-thumbed copy of the San Francisco Social Register, and a file of newspaper clippings showing who, among society, was out of town.

Police said there was a log of potential victims, listing vacations and other absences, and several San Francisco area maps.

There were also one dozen sets of license plates, identification cards bearing several different names, and a printing press capable of producing checks, credit cards and identification books.

"Swami"

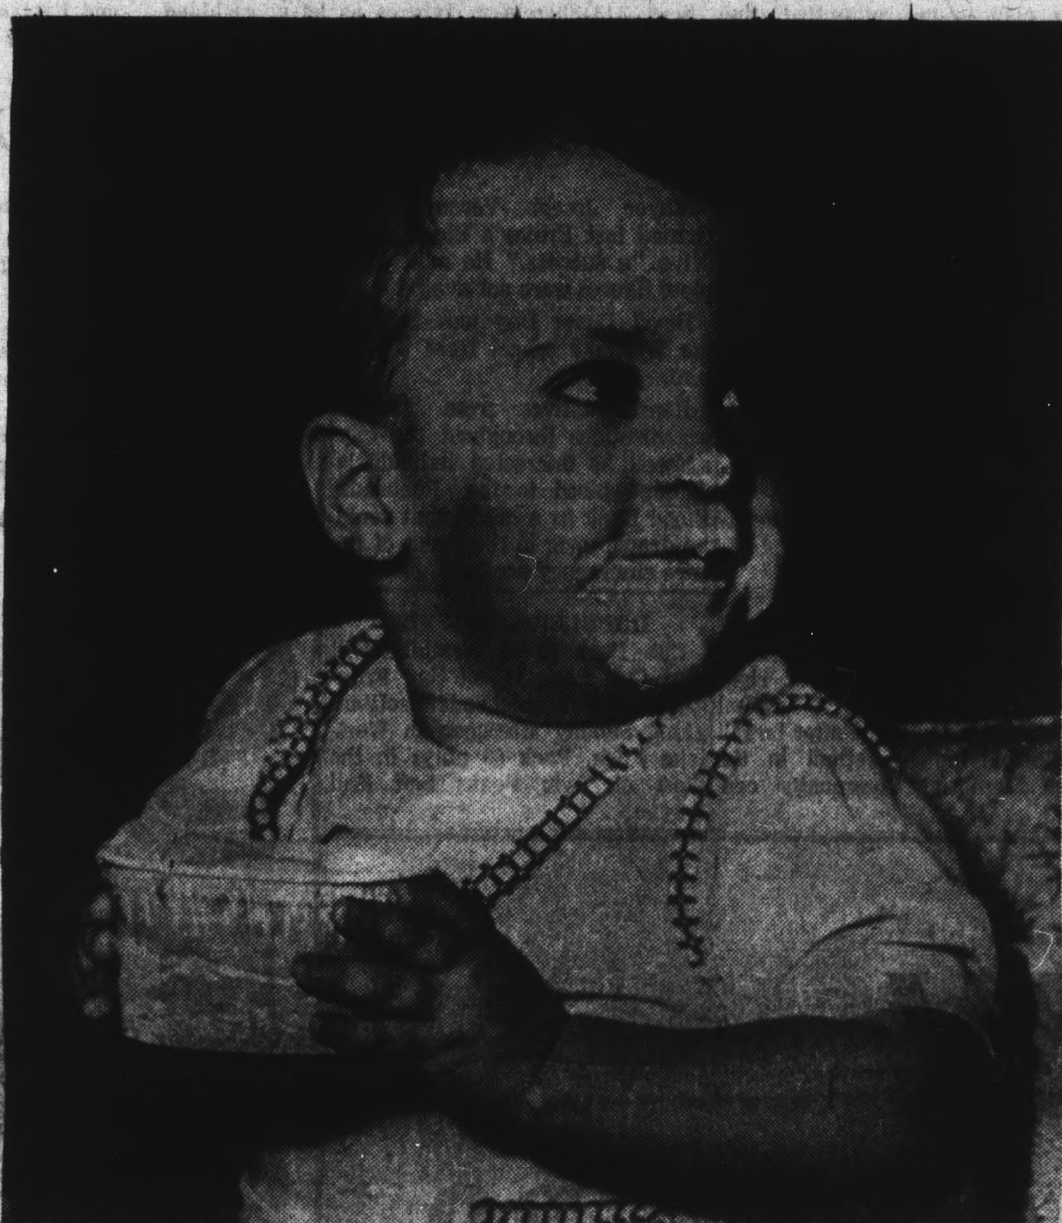

Lewis turned out to be a sometime "swami" and fortune teller who had used such aliases, police said, as "Darcel of India," "Mama Rama" and "Nana Rona."

He also, police said, is an ex-convict arrested for such things as fortune telling, child stealing and perjury.

Lewis told police he had retained J. W. Ehrlich as his attorney. He refused to discuss his wealthy status, nor the loot in his house.

Resident Group Will Pay Taxes Under Protest

A group of Pacificans have voted to pay taxes this year under protest and to request further reasons why the city cannot pay for a storm drainage facility along Milagra Creek from present funds.

Sohrad Alikhan, 212 Arroyo drive, representing members of the Manor Village Improvement club, said members did not feel property owners should be asked to pay for the facilities by assessment.

Fifty-four creek property owners are being urged by club members to join in the protest.

Victor Fox, 232 Arroyo, another improvement club leader, said county or state aid should be sought, since the creek development was built before the incorporation of Pacifica.

Milagra Creek has been causing erosion of neighboring properties and periodic flooding.

Fox said sewage and trash is being dumped into the creek, causing an acute health and sanitation problem.

Court Receives Marchbanks Will

Mrs. Bernadette Jones Marchbanks, widow of the founder of Tanforan race track, left most of her multi-million dollar estate to two sisters, according to her will which was filed for probate in Superior court Monday.

Mrs. Marchbanks left cash bequests of $10,000 each to a brother-in-law, Joseph G. Greene, a friend, Raphaelite Hanlon, and her servant, George Yung, all of San Francisco. Her home at 975 West Santa Inez avenue, Hillsborough, was left to her sister, Helen Lorraine Jones.

Mrs. Marchbanks, 63, died last Thursday in a San Francisco hospital. She was secretary to John William Marchbanks when she married him in 1947. He died a few months later and left her an estate of more than $5,000,000.

The earliest possible adoption of Route 229 with construction to begin on the Coastside was urged last weekend at a meeting of the Pacifica City Council, state and county legislative representatives.

The whole economy of Pacifica depends on a better highway system. State Senator Richard Dolwig, Assemblyman Leo Ryan and county supervisor James Fitzgerald were told.

Councilmen had asked for the meeting, the first held on the coastside city to acquaint legislators with Pacifica's problems.

Councilmen told Assemblyman Ryan they would back his bill seeking additional judgeships for the county and urging that a state

Councilman Harold Feyge pointed out that while it is apparently planned to assess property owners 20-cents per $100 of assessed valuation the first taxing year of the new bond issue, it has not been made clear what the tax rate will be in succeeding years. He said what revenue will be obtained from other sources such as state gas taxes has not been clearly stated.

The council agreed that it probably will formally endorse the bond issue once county authorities clarify the financial and taxing setup.

Board Seeks Sewage Leaks

North San Mateo county sanitation district engineer C. L. White, will use a heavy concentration of dye in an attempt to find a possible leak in a sewer force main, causing erosion at Daniel Webster Elementary school.

The sanitation board Monday instructed White to work with Dan Coleman associates in using the dye to eliminate several potential trouble areas where a leak may be located.

Chairman Francis Pacelli instructed White to contact the Division of Highways to secure plans for replacement of existing sewerage facilities from Knowles street to San Jose avenue.

A new freeway is planned in that area.

Pacelli said the department moves "pretty fast" sometimes and the staff should have time to study plans for possible changes in the system.

"We want a first-class job done when those lines are replaced," he said.

The San Francisco Board of Supervisors informed the sanitation district that they have held the first of three hearings on a proposal that would enable engineers to use the Lake Merced storm tunnel in building a new outfall line at Thornton Beach.

Bruno Tract Says Drive Is Success

While Westview residents were criticizing Pacifica city officials for lack of progress in their clean-up campaign, their neighbors just down the road on Skyline drive in the Pacific Heights subdivision of San Bruno were reporting early success in a similar drive.

Open areas that attract dumping were discussed at a meeting last week of San Bruno city manager Gerard Verger, developer Perry Liebman and Mrs. Arnold Baptiste who represents a group organizing a Pacific Heights homeowners improvement association.

During the meeting, Liebman by telephone hired a crew to clean up a debris-littered lot near a shopping center.

Verger promised the city would clean and maintain on a bi-monthly basis trash and litter areas near Sharp Park road and off Skyline drive.

Pacific Heights citizens also have organized a "most beautiful home of the month" contest, awarding prizes to homeowners who do the most to improve and beautify their property. The first set of prizes was awarded in December.

School Work Plans Pushed

The Jefferson Elementary school district board of trustees moved ahead last night with plans for renovation and an addition to Woodrow Wilson school.

The board approved an application for a $450,000 allocation from the State Department of Finance for the demolition of an existing annex and older part of the building and the construction of 12 classrooms.

'Not Adequate' The school, built in 1935 by the WPA, is "not adequate" to meet the state educational requirements of 900 square feet per classroom, according to School Superintendent Richard Foster. The existing classrooms are 700 square feet.

Last week, the board submitted an application for $250,000 to purchase 14 full parcels and three partial parcels of land surrounding the school.

Several home-owners in the area appeared at the meeting to protest the method the district uses to evaluate their property. They said they were not notified of the proposed move.

Foster explained there have been cases of land speculation, court action and group indignation in similar situations when people were notified in advance of proposed expansion.

Satisfactory The present method of having independent appraisers talk with the property owners has proved the most satisfactory to date, he explained. A revision of procedure will be taken under study, he indicated.

In this case, plans may have to be revised.

The district announced a proposed program for hard-of-hearing youngsters. Parents can enroll the children three years old and up in the classes, according to Foster.

Summer School The board heard a report on the 1962 summer school program and recommendations that were made by parents, children and teachers.

The enrollment in the program last summer was 1645 students. (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

REPORT DUE

Daly City Calls Special Meeting In Annex Action

The city council of Daly City has called a special meeting for 8 tomorrow night to discuss possible annexation of the inhabited portion of Bayshore City.

The land to be considered at the special meeting will not include the rich industrial property that Brisbane seeks to annex, according to City Manager Ed Frank.

The meeting was aimed at possible action to permit people living in the area to legally circulate a petition asking annexation under the Inhabited Annexation Law of 1913.

The move highlighted a busy week of activity in the Bayshore annexation derby. These were the other developments:

Daly City Manager Edward Frank reported at a chamber of commerce luncheon Thursday that from a financial standpoint, the acquisition of Bayshore City appeared "worthwhile."

All major departments of Daly City's governmental machinery were busy drawing up facts and figures on what effect annexation of Bayshore would have. A report was expected this week.

Thomas Bocci, an attorney representing a number of Bayshore citizens who desire annexation of their community to Daly City, said he believes Brisbane's annexation move is "on thin ice."

City councilmen and the technical staff met behind closed doors with some of the property owners involved in the annexation proposal.

Frank said that the move is under constant study, but cautioned that certain legal steps must be followed before Daly City could make a formal move.

In any event, he explained, the city could not take action until a proceeding instituted by Brisbane is concluded.

After noting that Daly City is now second only to San Mateo City, Frank observed that through annexation and natural population growth Daly City could become the county's largest. San Mateo has a 73,400 population.

"We might then have a little more influence as far as development of the north county is concerned," he emphasized.

The city departments have been studying the cost factors in the annexation move. Department heads met with Frank Thursday and were given several possible boundary increases to analyze.

Bocci said in an interview later, that one of the most favorable points in annexation with Daly City would be low cost of integrating city departments.

Bayshore has its own fire and police departments, sanitary district, public utilities district and school district.

At the luncheon Bocci, a former (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Vandals Damage 2 School Sites

Vandalism and thefts at two school construction sites in Daly City were reported by four contractors Monday.

The Associated Lath and Plaster company of San Francisco and the James E. Roberts company of Oakland reported damage to a large window and a cement mixer at Jefferson High school.

Kennedy Electric company of 184 Beacon street, South San Francisco, said a 350-foot coil of black wire had been taken from the Jefferson site.

Peter Sartoria, contractor at 140 Reiner street, Colma, told police that vandals had broken a large plate glass window and spilled paint over a new multipurpose room at Colma school.

(Please See Page 2, Column 3)

Brisbane to Delay Annex

Mayor John Turner presented a delegation of Bayshore City residents with copies of the city's financial statement when they visited the Brisbane city council meeting Monday night.

No new action was taken on annexation proceedings, however, as the council had previously scheduled a public hearing on the proposal to extend the city's southern city limits as far as the Alameda county line and its northern city limits to San Francisco for February 25.

Councilmen virtually completed taking over of the Brisbane water district Monday night when they accepted a deed for the district's properties from water district directors.

Councilman Arthur Saxauer of Fairbanks, Alaska, appeared at the meeting and reviewed how similar his city's problems are to Brisbane's. Saxauer said he was in Brisbane to purchase some property.

City Manager Lanier S. Brady presented an artist's sketch of a proposed city seal which was drawn from winning entries of a school children's contest to prepare an official seal. The new seal, which will be modified somewhat before its final adoption, features the city's slogan, "City of the Stars," and shows San Bruno mountain in the background.

Councilman James Williams was named to meet with a group of Brisbane Acres property owners to discuss possible modifications in a proposed sewer assessment district now being formed.

WESTLAKE STORES OPEN WEDNESDAY AND FRIDAY NIGHTS

Honored

FOR SERVICE—Mayor Joseph Verducci presents a plaque to City Clerk Evelyn Mosman, who is retiring February 1 after 18 years in the clerk's office. Mrs. Mosman also was given a wrist watch. She was honored again at a testimonial dinner last week at Oregio's in San Francisco 1 Lakeshore Plaza. Judge Frank Blum was the principal speaker.

A 'Marvelous Job'

A crowd of 175 persons paid a warm tribute to retiring Daly City clerk Evelyn Mosman Thursday at Oregio's restaurant in San Francisco.

Mrs. Mosman, who held the elective position from 1956 through 1962, was commended by key speaker Judge Frank B. Blum for a "marvelous job" during her tenure.

Blum said Mrs. Mosman had performed a "tremendous public relations service" for the city, as well as capably handling official business during her years in office.

The roster of guests read like a "who's who" in Daly City's municipal history. Among those attending were former mayors Arthur Bodien, A. J. Gaggero, Hugh Smith Jr. and Mel Battye. Councilman Michael De Ber-nardi was master of ceremonies. Further testimonials on Mrs. Mosman's service to the city were delivered by Mayor Joseph Verducci and Peter J. Markovich, secretary of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Mosman, who is moving to Seal Beach, Calif., for her retirement, described the tribute as a "lovely, lovely evening."

The dinner was arranged by Ann Ohlendorf and Markovich. Mrs. Ohlendorf earlier had been named by the council to fill Mrs. Mosman's unexpired term as city clerk.

90-Day Study for School Unity Plan

The San Mateo committee on school district organization decided last week that if several districts were to be housed under one administrative roof, tenants should be given the maximum opportunity to make the living arrangements.

The 11-member committee, meeting in augmented session with the Jefferson Union High school board and the elementary boards of Jefferson, Laguna Salada, Brisbane, and Bayshore City, voted last night to give local trustees 90 days in which to study proposed unification plans.

The move by the committee permits the boards to develop alternatives to the committee plan for the unifying the five districts into one.

Chairman Paul Bradley said the proposal was an effort to dispel a prevalent inference that the committee would pass its plan boards say.

During the 90 day period, the local boards are expected to develop facts and figures in support of other proposals.

A tentative report is to be given to the county committee within 60 days, and final results presented at its next meeting April 17.

According to a 1959 state master plan, the county must submit a proposal for unifying school districts, by September of this year.

If a plan is not submitted, the state board of education must draw up the boundaries.

The proposal by David Barry, a trustee in the Bayshore district, to postpone any decision until July 1, was defeated.

The local boards reportedly have been reluctant to accept the committee's boundary plan. Three previous meetings have failed to produce any progress toward a final settlement.

The committee's proposal must, however, be voted upon before any other plan can be considered.

If the local boards can develop alternatives, then the county committee would have to begin another series of augmented meetings.

The Pacifica council also asked for state help on the cost of relocating water lines in the path of the coast freeway, saying they did not believe such costs should be borne by a local water district.

Senator Dolwig was asked for help in solving the question of landscaping and billboards along Pacifica's new Cabrillo Coast highway.

Verducci Terms Blood Day a 'Success'

Mayor Joseph Verducci has termed last Friday's Blood Bank drive "a success." He said complete figures were not available.

Blood Donor Day was held at the Westlake school from 3 to 7 p.m.

Representatives from various organizations throughout the city as well as interested individuals donated blood to the Peninsula Blood Bank as a credit that could be drawn upon in the event of future emergency needs.

Verducci acted as chairman of the project, which was co-sponsored by the Rotary Club and the City of Daly City.

The Jefferson School district personnel and city employees responded in particularly large numbers, according to Verducci.

The mayor said that, while this year's project was a success, the committee would start planning in the very near future for next year's Blood Donor Day in order to solicit a greater and more representative response from Daly City citizens.

Coast Residents Play Key Role In Theft Arrests

Miss York and Lewis were first arrested Saturday after a hurried exit from the Pacifica Heights home of trucking executive Thomas R. Dwyer, away from home at the Crosby golf tournament at Pebble Beach.

Dwyer and his wife had asked their maid Alberta Hall, to pick up their mail. The maid found the door latched by an inside chain and a small hole drilled through the door. She called police, who took Lewis and Miss York into custody.

Inside, they found many valuables packed ready for removal, such items as jewelry, furs and clothes.

Annexation Proceeding Is Studied

municipal judge of the North San Mateo county judicial district, said:

"If they (Brisbane) make any mistake along the way in their annexation proceedings, their petition will become invalid and they must wait a year before they can begin a new action."

Brisbane is proceeding under the state's Annexation of Uninhabited Territory Act of 1959.

"The validity of annexation proceedings by Brisbane will be in question for some two years pending litigation," Bocci said. "In my opinion, Brisbane is on very questionable grounds in taking all this area in one proceeding."

"Although Daly City will not take any formal action, they have unofficially indicated a real interest in taking the affected area in the event the Brisbane annexation fails," the lawyer added.

"My preliminary studies show that Daly City, with the Bayshore areas annexed to it, would have a low municipal tax, probably the lowest in San Mateo county," Bocci explained.

Bocci is a Daly City resident with offices here and in South San Francisco.

Mayor Joseph Verducci, some of the councilmen, and members of the technical staff have met with executives of the Southern Pacific Railroad company and Pacific Gas and Electric company, two of the major land owners of the property involved in the Brisbane move.

The Daly City officials presented facts and figures pointing out the benefits of annexation with the city.

The two firms have taken them under study.

According to Bocci, the area proposed for annexation is three times the size of the present corporate limits of Brisbane, and has an assessed valuation of $6-million.

He estimated its potential assessed valuation at $100-million and noted:

"You can well see it's a plum worth gathering in at this time."

Frank Martorana, chairman of the chamber's industrial planning committee, urged that Daly City become a party in court action aimed at blocking Brisbane's proceeding.

"I think that out of survival considerations, Daly City should take and use any procedure the law provides. I think morally the city would be doing the right thing to step in with a lawsuit."

"A lawsuit might give us a chance to negotiate and get a part of the land involved," he said.

THERE WAS a San Francisco disc jockey—we believe it was Don Sherwood—who once collected movie clichés.

You know, like, "Ho, so, you suplied I speak your language. I was educated at U.C.R.A."

Or, "Thanks, I needed that."

And then there was, "Sometimes a man does what he has to do."

And so forth. I got to thinking that if Sherwood could get laughs with movie clichés, that I could make up an act and go on the road with coaches' clichés.

One idea I had was a reporter interviewing a coach, which is a cliché in itself. Something like this:

Reporter: "Tell me, coach, are your boys looking ahead to the big game four weeks from now?"

Coach: "I'm worried about this week's game. We play them one at a time."

Reporter: "What do you think of Little State's chances against you this week?"

Coach: "They'll have to beat us to win."

Reporter: "Do you think you'll have much of a chance against Big State?"

Coach: "We'll show up."

Reporter: "Yes, but what are your chances?"

Coach: "We didn't come to get beat."

Reporter: "What do you have to say about last week's drubbing?"

Coach: "As you know, we're rebuilding, but I have good game boys who come to play and are coming along. They won't beat themselves much longer. In the meanwhile, we're going back to fundamentals."

Reporter: "What about that drubbing you handed poor little Sewash a few weeks back?"

Coach: "They were great competitors who gave no quarter and asked no quarter and never knew when they were beaten. I look forward to playing them again next year."

Reporter: "What do you think about playing Notre Dame in the midst of their 100 game winning streak?"

Coach: "They lace their shoes the same way as we do."

Reporter: "What about these rumors that the university isn't going to pick up your option after this season?"

Coach: "No comment."

AVID READERS (star?) of this column may have noted that no longer do I use "we" when referring to myself, but now use the more informal and democratic "I" reference.

The "we" is commonly referred to as the editorial we, which originated when editors wanted to say something but didn't want to take the blame alone. In this way, the "we" made the article in question appear to be the work of the entire editorial staff, and with a large enough editorial staff, no six-shot revolver in the world could have handled everyone.

I got into the habit of using "we" in college because it was considered correct form, but finally switched to "I" when people began telling me that my articles would have been much worse if I didn't have somebody helping me.

I went back to the "we" when certain people with nothing better to do began counting my "I's" and accusing me of being self-centered.

The reason why I'm using "I" again is that my next door neighbor, for reasons known only to him, doesn't like the "we" form. Since he's the only person aside from my father—who I'm sure is a regular reader of this column (although I became suspicious of his motives when he told me he read it in the basement while cleaning up after his dog), I just want to please him.

How am I doing, reader?

Ski Rax

THAT BAD — One of the mountain county resort owners wants the Gov. to declare the ski country as disaster area because of the failure of the elements to provide enough snow. Such a designation would allow small businesses in the Lake Tahoe area, hard hit by the lack of winter tourist business, to apply for federal help. When you are facing bankruptcy it's pretty hard to say "That's snow biz!"

OVER THE HILL — At Dodge Ridge, where the prayer is still "Make it snow, please make it snow," there is still some activity. Steve Foley and Doug Morrison, both San Mateo junior racing champions, are going to the Mammoth Mountain Downhill slalom II point race this weekend. Foley and Morrison, members of the Dodge Ridge ski team, may qualify this year for the national contest, we hope.

DULLY NOTED: Dave Burlingame is the United States Ski Association eligibility committee chairman this year, but he resides in Denver.

TRAGEDY UPON DISASTER — Lassen Volcanic National Park ski area, one of the few areas in California that year after year has always had enough snow by January 1, closed down this week because of an insufficient snow pack. Normal pack at this time of year is between six and 12 feet, but this year it has never been more than three feet. Usually the problem at this time of year is too much snow. However, there is still fair to poor skiing at Shasta.

Top Drag Race Events Coming

A record crowd of 20,000 drag racing fans is expected to see two major racing events in this area this year.

One is the third annual West Coast championships at the Fremont Drag strip, March 9-10. The other is the third annual California State championships, which have been scheduled for the Half Moon Bay drag strip, May 25-26.

Top drivers from all over the United States will compete for $10,000 prizes and awards in the two events.

LEAGUE OPENER

Rams Easily Down Oceana

The Westmoor Rams' basketball team worked like a well-oiled machine last Friday in rolling over an inexperienced Oceana team at the new Pacifica school, 51-29.

All of Ram coach Tony Giamonna's reserves saw action in the league opener.

Giamonna said afterward that the game was one of the best of the season for the Ram cagers.

"If we play all season like we did that first half, we're going to be tough," Giamonna said.

Center John Kelly blanketed both boards, netting 16 points and grabbing off 13 rebounds. Most of the points were on tip-ins.

Oceana was hurt by the absence of key player Larry Kin-kade, one of the Shark's high scorers and top board men. Kin-kade was out of school last week with bronchitis. Although he suited up, Coach Rich Warne did not use him.

Sophomore Steve Rentmeester was the big scorer for the losers with nine points.

From the opening gun, the aggressive Rams pressed the Sharks, stealing the ball and mounting a fast-breaking attack.

Warne said he was satisfied with his team's showing despite the loss. "They were hustling down to the end," he said.

Track Program Set for Girls

If you're talking track and field, new names may soon be entering the conversation at Westmoor high school where a program has been set up for girls during physical education classes.

Track curriculum for girls consists of 50 and 75 yard dashes, standing and running broadjumps and relay races. Field events include softball and basketball throws-for-a-distance.

Darlene Keith, Westmoor physical education instructor who organized the course, said "a track and field course was started because we feel it builds up the endurance of the participants and is an enjoyable sport."

Wrestling Tournery Set

The world's wrestling tournament is set for Feb. 1 in Petaluma at the Veterans' Memorial building. Starting time is 8 p.m. Back to defend his world's title will be Earl Hagerman, a 5-8, 220 pounder, from Santa Rosa.

Indians Edge Tigers; SSF Down Colts

The Jefferson Indians, a dark horse contender in the North Peninsula Athletic league, just squeaked by the Terra Nova Tigers, 44-40, in opening play in the league last Friday night on the Indians' court.

In other action, South San Francisco had few problems in downing crosstown rival El Camino, 58-34.

The Indians were paced in their scoring by Dan Boden, who tallied 18 points, high for both clubs.

Terra Nova led at the half, 25-23, but the Indians took the lead in the third stanza, outscoring the Tigers, 10-5.

In the South San Francisco game, Dave Parenti led the Warriors—and both clubs—with 18 points. Westmoorland paced the Colts with 11 points.

Adult Cage League Set

The Pacific Park, Beach and Recreation department is sponsoring an adult basketball league Monday evenings at Oceana Gym. There is a $10 entry fee for each team.

League play will start Monday. Only those residents out of high school can participate in the league. The loop will be limited to 7 teams.

Football Awards Night Scheduled

The Daly City Recreation department will hold its annual Touch Football League Awards Night in the War Memorial Community center gymnasium at 7 p.m. Friday.

This year, in addition to the presentation of awards to first and second place teams, an exhibition of gymnastics will be given.

Through the co-operation and assistance of Joseph Verducci, director of athletics for San Francisco State college, and Angelo Festa, gymnastics coach for San Francisco State, children of the community will be given an opportunity to see SFS gymnasts in action.

Foreign countries have long recognized the value of gymnastics and tumbling and dominate international competition. America's interest is increasing and the U.S. hopes to overtake foreign leadership, enthusiasts say.

Performers

Performing for the awards night will be Jim Fairchild, NCAA side horse champion; Ray Hadley, Big Ten all-around gymnastics champion; Steve Southwell, 1963 San Francisco State gymnastics team captain; Camella Bawl, trampolines champion; George Wilcox, 1962 San Francisco State gymnastics team captain, and Ted McCade and Jerry Crouse, members of the San Francisco State gymnastics team.

In addition to these stars, the show will feature 15-year-old Larry Butts, 1962 San Francisco State invitational tumbling champion and 16-year-old Paul Mayer, Northern California high school all-around tumbling champion. Councilman Frank Pacelli will present individual awards to the first and second place league teams.

Receiving awards will be the PAL Eagles, PAL Indians, OLPH Twisters, PAL Tigers, PAL Rams and PAL 49ers.

Volleyball Loop Will Resume

The adult mixed volleyball League play will start Monday. Park, Beach and Recreation department, will resume play to tomorrow evening after a week's layoff. The teams meeting each other are: A-OK'S 1-1 vs. Jumping Beans 0-2; Pews 2-0 vs. Net-les 2-0; Linda Martians 1-1 vs. Pacific Manor 1-1; and Barcelona Bums 1-1 vs. Parsons 0-2.

PELEKODAS HEADS UMPIRE TEAM

Fregosi, Mossi in Dimes Gam

Los Angeles Angels shortstop Jim Fregosi and Detroit Tigers pitcher Don Mossi, both Peninsula residents, will play in the annual March of Dimes All-Star Major-Minor Baseball game here at Fitzgerald field, February 10.

The player selection committee also announced that National league Umpire Chris Pelekoudas will head the umpire team for the benefit contest—the biggest exhibition game of its kind in Northern California.

Also signed up were Don Gile, former Boston Red Sox first baseman; catcher Bob Rosselli, who is on the Indianapolis roster; catcher Frank Zupo, who is with the Baltimore Orioles organization; Cincinnati's Tommy Harper and the two Camilli brothers—Doug and Dolph. Doug is a catcher with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Pitcher Wade Blasingame, a $100,000 bonus baby of the Milwaukee Braves, has also agreed to play in the game.

Tickets for the contest are now on sale at the San Mateo Post Office, all San Mateo fire stations, sports stores in San Mateo (Darcy's and Ellingson's), Burlingame (Ricci's) and San Bruno (Ellingson's). They may also be obtained at the Hyatt House in Burlingame. The donation price is $1 and all funds will go to the March of Dimes.

Fregosi, Gile, Mossi, Doug Camilli and Harper were all on major league rosters at the close of the 1962 season.

Other players who have been acquired for the game include former Giants Mike McCormick and Hobie Landrith, now both with the Baltimore Orioles, and Al Pacchini, formerly with the Milwaukee organization.

There are no more undefeated teams in the tight Golden Gate conference basketball race although the season was only seven games old today.

Five squads, including College of San Mateo, now share the league leadership with 2-1 marks after both the Bulldogs and City College of San Francisco were knocked from the unbeaten ranks on foreign courts last week.

CSM dropped a 52-42 decision at Oakland's crackerbox gym while defending State champ CCSF lost to host Diablo Valley, 65-53 in yesterday's only games. All four teams are now tied at 2-1 along with San Jose.

San Mateo trailed throughout last night's contest but often came within three points of catching the game.

World Series Films Slated

Films of the 1962 Yankee-Giant World Series will be shown this week at the Westlake Bowl. The films will be shown daily through Friday at 3:30, 5:30 and 8 p.m. in the Bowl banquet room.

The Saturday and Sunday showings have been scheduled for 12:30, 3 and 5 p.m.

The movies are provided by the Coca-Cola company.

Terra Nova Matmen Win

Terra Nova's wrestling team posted another come-from-behind win in North Peninsula Athletic league action last week, nipping Jefferson, 24-22.

The Tigers and Indians each won six matches but Terra Nova scored two pins to one for the losers.

Tigers winning by decision were Charles Rogers in the 95 pound class, Ron Dillon in 138 pound, Sam Jones in 165 pound and Chuck Humbel in 175.

Russ Union won by a pin in 145 pound and Mike Lally also won by a pin in the unlimited category.

Terra Nova meets El Camino in its next match Friday.

Little League Parents to Meet

Two meetings for parents of Pacifica Little league players have been scheduled this week.

Parents of boys in the Linda Mar and Pedro Point areas will meet at 7:30 tonight in the community room of Pedro Valley school.

Parents of boys who live from Rockaway Beach north to Pacific Manor, including Westview and Pacific Heights, will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the community room of Pacific Manor school.

CSM Loses, But Shares League Lead

There are no more undefeated teams in the tight Golden Gate conference basketball race although the season was only seven games old today.

Sugar 'n' Spice

By Nell Norton

A WIT once wrote, "Pity the housewife, the minute she steps out of bed she's behind schedule—she hasn't made breakfast yet."

We really aren't so put upon as that, but breakfast can be a chore and sometimes, even a bore. Here are some ideas that may help make breakfast a bit more interesting for you and the family.

These pancakes are a dream. Fool proof, tasty, and so light that you have to pour on the syrup fast to keep them from floating away. Well, almost. This recipe came from Wisconsin and was presented in a book called "Favorite Recipes from America's Dairyland."

SOUR MILK PANCAKES

- 2 cups flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 2 cups sour milk
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 2 eggs, well beaten.

Sift dry ingredients together, add milk. Stir lightly. Add butter and fold in eggs. Bake on hot, ungreased griddle.

NOTE: You can make sour milk from fresh milk by adding 1 tablespoon white vinegar to each cup of milk. Let stand at room temperature about a half hour.

THESE DOUGHNUTS are really quite easy to make and are so good served warm and sugary that they will disappear fast.

DOUGHNUT DROPS

- 1 egg
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 1/3 cup flour
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 1/2 tablespoons of baking powder

Beat egg one minute. Add sugar, butter, vanilla and milk. Beat one-half minute. Add sifted dry ingredients. Fry in oil, 365 degrees. Fry for two minutes.

WHILE WE ARE thinking about such mouth-watering matters—here's a recipe that is tasty and quick. It could be used for breakfast or with bacon and eggs for an easy dinner.

PANCAKE CORN FRITTERS

- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 cup pancake mix
- 1 can (12 ounces) whole kernel corn, drained

Blend the egg and milk together. Stir in the pancake mix and corn. Fluffy fritters need a light hand so don't overheat. Drop by spoonfuls into hot oil (one-inch deep) and cook slowly until golden brown, about four minutes. Makes 20 to 24 fritters. Serve hot with lots of syrup.

MY THANKS to the readers and friends who have been sending me those interesting recipes. I'll be writing about them in the column soon.

What's Doing At Westmoor

AMIDST THE CAMPAIGNING and the voting and the speeches and some gloating, from the cramming and the writing and the cheering and the fighting, one bright star gleams on the WHS horizon—it's the Bossa Nova!

And it's not hard to get a little "desafinado" while concentrating on swaying to the catchy Latin rhythm, claim the Arthur and Kathryn Murrays who have learned the new steps in their social dance class, taught by Barbara Bosio and coach Tony Giammona.

Also thinking South of the Border are debaters from Alvin Wolf's enriched United States history class, who are translating from Spanish history texts in order to present the Mexican side of the Mexican War of 1846.

Perhaps not quite so educational but every bit as interesting is a dinner planned for tonight by the Spanish club. Members will dine on Latin cuisine at the El Sombbrero restaurant in San Francisco.

Spirit is "rally" rocking the campus, as usual. Latest idea is a lunchtime pep session, such as one held last Friday during both lunches, complete with cheerleaders and pep girls.

CLUB CAPERS: Unsung heroes of the WHS Chess club played against El Camino recently. But they couldn't seem to get ahead. El Camino won.

Ad Libbers at a recent session enjoyed a thought-provoking discussion on the current senate investigations of radio station KPFA . . . Future Teachers club members have offered to give up their semester break on Friday, February 1, to help deans and teachers handle program changes . . . Explaining the California Scholarship Federation to frosh last week were CSF's who volunteered to tell about the organization to freshmen English classes.

RAMBLING ON: Latest figures show that 1171 yearbooks have been sold, with seniors buying the most . . . the St. Francis-Westlake jitney now stops each afternoon in front of WHS to pick up weary scholars—blessings on thee, Northgate Transit . . . Sayonara and cherry blossoms is the theme for this month's library bulletin board with its Japanese posters, maps and leaflets . . . Chinese students are busy adding and subtracting with their Oriental abacuses.

Musically speaking, tryouts were held last week for the musical, "Get Up and Go," to be presented by the music and drama departments. After auditioning with songs and readings, two separate casts were selected for the two planned performances.

Current pride and joy of the music department is sophomore Chuck Brickley whose composition, "Dreams to Fear," will be used by the modern dance class band in the May musical festival.

"Green Pastures"—economics class welcomed a speaker last Monday from the Federal Reserve System . . . P.E. classes have been undergoing eye check-ups given by school nurse Mrs. Phyllis Colbert and her assistants.

New Clubs Plan Second Meetings

Preparations are underway for the second night of meetings for newly formed junior teen clubs organized west of Junipero Serra boulevard and sponsored by the Daly City Recreation department.

Each of the clubs is planning special programs for their next meeting from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday.

Pupils Plan Tour of Firm

Twenty Westmoor High school students will visit Lenkurt Electronics in San Carlos tomorrow. Students, according to mechanical drawing teacher Larry Carlson, will become acquainted with the process, design, drawing and engineering of electronics products.

Now in their third year of mechanical drawing, the students recently have been working in metals.

Members of the drawing board league include Tom Asaro, Roger Axt, Robert Bellan, Dale Erickson, Richard Fields, Ken Files, John Fuentes, Doug Gombin, Stan Hommel and Gary Katge.

Other junior artists in design are John Kerekes, Paul Kuehheit, Tomm Ottoman, Jim Posha, Len Smith, Robert Tuttle, Gordon Whittington, Richard Williams and Bill Shroeter.

Photos Required On Member ID's

Members of the Hi-Fi Teen club now need pictures on their membership cards to be admitted to teen club activities, according to Youth Supervisor Alan Boyd.

Pictures may be turned in at the 2oor with membership cards for those members who have not had their pictures laminated onto the cards, Boyd said.

New membership cards are sold the first Wednesday of each month only. Pictures for cards also are taken at that time.

Members who lose their cards may be admitted to club activities only after contacting the club adviser, Ron Madariaga, at the door.

Teen Units Complete 1st Organization

Selection of club names, announcement of executive council members and the closing of an initial membership drive featured activity in three new junior teen clubs meeting east of Junipero Serra boulevard.

The three clubs, organized and directed under the auspices of the Daly City Recreation department, have completed a series of four organizational meetings.

Club activities and operations are now in the hands of the newly appointed executive councils, under the guidance of recreation department advisers.

Each of the clubs meet regularly every other Friday evening from 7 to 9. Next meetings are scheduled February 1.

Membership sales for new members will re-open March 15. Club activities until then will be limited to members only with certain additional guest privileges to be announced at club meetings.

Each group of newly appointed executive council members will elect a chairman, vice-chairman, secretary and treasurer as formal officers of the club and will establish a permanent meeting time to discuss and plan club activities and operations. Here is a list of each club, name, meeting site, number of active members and names of its executive council:

CASUALIERS—Jefferson Elementary school, 85 members; Madelyn Martinelli, Sue Thomeless, Sue Chiappari, Roy Sanguietti, Louis Chandler, Jim Tiedge, Gary Boscacci, Alberta Ellis and John Vernazza.

WATUSSI WARRIORS—War Memorial Community center, 97 members; Jim Franco, Ellen Johnson, Carole Smith, Mary Sgambati, Steve Bowen, Debbie Fore, Kay Kiser, Don Hackett and Bob Banos.

MAJESTICS—Lincoln Park clubhouse, 67 members; Weda Van Randall, Dan Laird, Sandra Torrez, Joe Torrez, Sue Wong, Bob Landau, Ron Runne, Vera Rendeiro and Hayward Fontenot.

Hi-Fi Club Names Two

The Hi-Fi Teen club's executive council has announced the appointment of John Fernandez, Jefferson High school senior, and Toni Matteucci, junior, as replacements for Daaryl Crist and Kay Loesser who have resigned.

Each of these new appointments are on probationary basis and will become permanent in two months.

Last Wednesday's teen club activities featured relays between club members. Huge decorated cakes were awarded to winning teams in the activities, planned by the club's program committee under the direction of chairman, Toni Nemio.

At its executive council meeting Monday evening, the council continued development of a revised constitution and a new set of by-laws to govern the operation of the club. Final adoption is expected within the month.

Ray Marshall, executive council chairman, reminds all members that pictures for teen club cards will be sold and taken Wednesday, February 6, for prospective members.

Music Unit Will Add 12

Twelve apprentices at Westmoor High school will become masters of modern music Friday at formal initiation ceremonies.

Modern Music Masters, a national music honor society guided at Westmoor by Howard Loeffler, will greet Charles Brickley, Rosalie Castano, Stacy Cusulor, Kethy Edmondson, June Hansen and Frances Lewkowicz.

Other apprentices are Bruce Mayo, Sharon Marshall, Darlene Meir, Cathy Moon, Dave Prentice, and Helen Wisler.

At afternoon ceremonies, the students will be sworn in by president John Picetti. Ceremonies will be witnessed by members Gloria Moore, Ronald Swedberg and Robert Stein.

'Sale-of-Sales' Is Scheduled

The first major 1963 sales promotion for Mission street merchants in Daly City-Colma will be held next week.

Billed as the "Sale of Sales," the event will unite Mission street merchants in a single promotional effort, designed to keep consumer dollars within the city area.

The sale has been given the endorsement of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce.

The event will run from Wednesday through Saturday, January 30 through February 2, and will include clearance-priced items, special merchandise, as well as inventory-reduction sales and pre-spring clean-ups.

All participating stores will display "Sale of Sales" banners.

A CHANGE — Bob Berkowitz of Pacifica, outgoing president of the sophomore class at College of San Mateo, hands over president's gavel to new president Don Camp.

also of Pacifica. Camp begins his term of office at the start of the college's spring semester.

Pacifica Monopoly

Pacifica students have staked a claim on the office of sophomore class president for the Associated Students of College of San Mateo.

For the first time in the 41-year history of the college, the class presidency has passed from one Pacifica resident to another.

STARTS IN SPRING
CAMP, who begins his term of office at the start of the spring semester this month, is a 1950 graduate of Westmoor High School.

A sophomore art major, plans to transfer to Stanford or the University of California to complete preparation for a career in art direction or teaching in this field.

His chief interest is in oil painting and he has sold a number of his works in Pacifica.

In addition, some of his paintings were shown at a recent art department open house exhibit on the College campus. Camp previously served the student government as a member of the judicial council.

WESTMOOR GRADUATE
A LONG-TIME resident of Pacifica, Bob Berkowitz is a 1958 Westmoor graduate. After three years of service in the navy, he resumed his education at College of San Mateo.

He is a humanities major and plans to enter public relations upon completion of his college work. In addition to his leadership of the sophomore class, Berkowitz has been the president of the campus Veterans Club, an organization of ex-servicemen attending CSM.

During the spring semester, he will continue to work closely with the student council to promote community-college ties.

The two Pacificans join two other Westmoor graduates who are active in CSM student government. The top student officer, president of the Associated Students, will be held during the spring by Mark Hein, an honor student and a 1950 Westmoor graduate.

Robert "Hap" Skillman, active in drama as well as in student government, has been re-elected to the judicial council.

Urge S.M. School Chief Be Appointed

The superintendent of San Mateo county schools should be appointed by the county school board, rather than elected by the people, says the County School Superintendents' association.

The association says this would make the superintendent more directly responsible to the county school board.

"This is no reflection of James Torney, and he is well aware of that," said association secretary L. M. Larson, superintendent of the Woodside district. A resolution urging the county board of supervisors to place this proposal on the school elections ballot in April was unanimously approved by all 18 superintendents present at the monthly association meeting Friday.

The association said the present situation, with both superintendent and school boards elected, leads to a split in responsibility. The superintendent tends to feel responsibility toward the voters instead of toward the school board, which might lead to a working at cross purposes, the association explains.

"If the county board appoints the superintendent, as do other boards, the superintendent would be responsible to them. He would still have certain responsibilities to his office as set up by the state code, but nevertheless, would be directly responsible to the school board."

The county school board should have as wide a choice in the selection of their superintendent as do the various districts within the county, the resolution suggests.

Report Only 'Little Lie'

When Mrs. Dolores Balcom told police she had been raped she was not telling the truth, but she did not make a false police report either, ruled San Francisco Municipal Judge Leland Lazarus.

Mrs. Balcom, a waitress in a Daly City cafe, told San Francisco police that a man forced his way into her car as she left work December 12, then beat her on the face with a bottle in a rape try.

She later admitted she had made a date with the man, and that he hit her with the bottle when they got into an argument. Mrs. Balcom, 24, has four children.

Judge Lazarus ruled that since she was actually, in a sense, attacked, her report was not wholly untrue, and therefore was not false.

"She embroidered the facts, and it's a rare thing when everything that anybody tells a police officer is true," said the judge.

Food Group Cites Cala Advances

The growth of Cala Foods from a single store operation to one of the Bay Area's important independent food chains was told last week at the regular meeting of the West Bay Sparklers.
The "Sparklers", a food industry organization, heard the story of Cala's development in the retail food trade from John Cala, one of seven brothers who are active in the organization.
Designated as "Cala Food Night", the evening featured introductions of the personnel from Cala, as well as John Cala's history of the growth of their firm.
Locally, the Cala chain has stores in Daly City and Pacifica. The Sparklers also elected officers for the new year.
Named to serve as treasurer of the club was Gerson Miller, national advertising and promotion manager of The Times-Post, who has long been active in the "Sparklers".

LETTERS

To the Editor:
Will you please convey the gratitude and thanks of many Daly City residents to your Ron Bates for his factual and conscientious coverage of the proceedings of the recent meeting of our Daly City Council.

The impartiality evidenced by Mr. Bates and your newspaper with regard to the activities of the Citizens' Committee for Good Government in Daly City, and its courageous stand to oppose the annexation of non-industrial areas to Daly City, is a matter of deep satisfaction to all of us.

Yours is the only newspaper in which the protest of Citizens' Committee for Good Government was reported — and we sincerely hope that you will continue to enlighten the citizens of this community with the facts relative to both sides of this major controversy of annexation.

The Citizens' Committee stands shoulder-to-shoulder with Daly City's Chamber of Commerce in a concerted effort to annex only such lands to our city as will tend to reduce our burdensome tax load.

To the Editor:

The Jefferson High school P-TA wishes to express appreciation for the co-operation you and your staff have given our P-TA.

The articles and photographs you published in The Post helped make a very successful dinner for our money-making project. The articles you published also informed the community of the unit activities.

Town Hall Calls Road Bond Meet

One of the first meetings of citizens to hear the full details of San Mateo county's proposed highway and railway overpass building program, has been called by the Town Hall association for 8 p.m. Thursday, January 24 in the San Bruno city hall.

Program chairman George Parker of Burlingame will present Paul Reimer, vice president of George S. Nolte, Consulting Civil Engineers, who recently completed a detailed survey of the county's needs.

Their proposal is backed up by many photographs and aerial maps showing the 79 highway and 31 grade separation projects which make up the long term program which is divided into three stages, the first of which amounting to $36,410,000 is to be voted upon by San Mateo county taxpayers in the coming April election.

"Since You Asked Me..."

Do you think Daly City should annex Bayshore City?

Thomas Adams, 260 Castle street, Daly City: "I think it's a good move. We don't have any industrial land here. I understand there is room for it over there."

Mrs. Donald Thompson, 420 San Pedro, Daly City: "We elected city officials to do a job. If they think it's good, then I'm sure it's right. They know they wouldn't get elected next time if they didn't keep the city's best interests at heart."

Mrs. P. B. Elders, 870 Hillside boulevard, Daly City: "I don't know that much about it. If we become bigger, though, maybe we can get more in the way of money for schools and roads and things like that. But, then again, it might cost more to run a bigger city."

Show Concern on State's Economy

Concern over California's number one position as largest state in the nation was expressed at Wednesday's economic conference of the San Mateo County Development association at Hillsdale Inn.

This was echoed by a series of speakers at the afternoon session led by Orin Simpson, manager, General Electric, when a discussion was held on the impact of a sound business climate on the growth problems of industry at the county, Bay Area and state level.

"The boast that California maintains the top position in population count is meaningless unless we have jobs for our people and unless there is a sound program designed to bring new industry and new business into the state," said Robert B. Murray Jr., executive vice president, Pan American World Airways.

"This program will have to reflect an equitable picture of the business climate of our state and unless we work together, on some of our internal problems, keeping high land costs in focus, high labor costs in focus and high taxes in focus we will find that we have priced ourselves out of the competitive industrial market."

On the same panel Senator Richard J. Dolwig pointed to the responsibility of government in keeping "the cost of doing business at a minimum and yet supply those necessary protections required when the job opportunities do not keep up with the growth of population."

Henry Schwab, president, San Mateo County Building Trades Council and Building Material and Construction Teamsters' Union, local 216, stated that responsible union leadership recognizes that unnecessary and costly strikes can soon affect the economy of any area and that through the co-operation of labor and management, particularly in San Mateo county, labor well recognizes the need for sound fiscal and economic policies.

Joseph K. Allen, vice president, Utah Construction and Mining company warned that "excesses in any field are dangerous and that high costs of property and other factors of land development costs could well affect the well being of a community."

The luncheon part of the program devoted to an address by Albert P. Heiner, vice president, public relations and traffic, Kaiser Steel Corporation. Outlining some of the economic factors of industry such as competitive freight rates, steel pricing and the effect of foreign competition in the local and State development scene, Heiner said that for any community is the one that's already there.

The morning meeting surrounded the subject of mass transportation in San Mateo county bringing together experts in the field that led a full discussion of the present position of transportation in this area. Co-chairman Kenneth Van Gundy, councilman, San Mateo and district manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric, and Lee Ham, Wilsey Ham and Blair led a panel consisting of Supervisor William Werder, Stanley E. McCaffrey, president, San Francisco Bay Area Council and Glen Ireland, vice president of the Government Research Council and co-chairman of the special mass transit board.

Both McCaffrey and Ireland agreed that this is the necessary "first step" in approaching the mass transportation problems of San Mateo county and that the future of any rapid transit system would depend on the joint co-operative action of Santa Clara county and San Mateo county,

Shopping Center Officially Opens

The St. Francis Square Shopping center officially opened its door last Wednesday.

Mayor Joseph Verducci, Councilman Edward Dennis, and several civic and city officials were on hand to watch the traditional red ribbon cut opening the newest shopping center in North San Mateo county.

The shopping area, designed by Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons, San Francisco architects, was built at a cost of nearly one million dollars by Barton Development company.

Fifty-five lucky local residents were the recipients of merchandise awards at a drawing last Saturday.

Approximately 100 were on hand as St. Francis Square Merchants association President William Schaefer announced the winners, C. A. McDaniel, 657 St. Francis boulevard, won the grand prize of $50.

Winner of a $25 merchandise award was Anthony Varize, 25 Los Banos avenue. Hope Cid, 250 St. Catherine drive, was the winner of a $10 award.

Peg Noonan, 476 El Dorado way won a $7 award and K. Yvonne Phillips, 965 Higate drive won a $5 award.

Fifty awards of $2 also were given away.

Stores in the shopping center include: Safeway Supermarket, Nora's Beauty shop, Luck 7 Bottle shop, William Bedford's State Farm Insurance office, James E. Ragland's barber shop, Thrifty Wash, St. Francis Cleaners, Mel's Mobil Station, St. Francis Heights Pharmacy, Josephine's Gifts, Sue's Quality Donuts, and Kiddie Korner.

North County Flood Plans Off

The county board of supervisors is serving notice on the city councils of north county cities that it intends to call off its plans for a north county flood control district.

Any final words on the subject are to be heard at a hearing scheduled for 2 p.m. February 5. The board decided to abandon plans for the Colma Creek flood control district after it ran into the unshakable opposition of most of the cities in the area. It was decided instead to try to get legislation that would make the flood control act more palatable to the city officials.

District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson advised the board that it would not be legal to continue the hearing on formation of the Colma Creek district to some indefinite time to await legislative action. Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald suggested that the hearing be put over until some definite date in July or August.

But County Manager E. R. Stallings said such a decision would be embarrassing to him because he had told Colma officials that the hearing would just be continued for a short while.

It was then agreed that the hearing will be concluded at the February 5 meeting to await legislative action.

Proposed legislative changes include authorization to tax in flood control districts on the basis of benefit, and a requirement that tax rates for projects be spelled out when the districts are formed. County officials believe these changes would remove most of the objections of the cities.

Lumber Spilled On Serra Route

A huge flatbed truck, heavily loaded with lumber, overturned on busy Junipero Serra boulevard in Daly City about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday when the lumber shifted.

Police reported that braces holding the lumber had snapped. The driver, Oscar F. Galton, 46, of San Francisco, employed by the Broadmoor Lumber company, was not injured. Daly City firemen washed down the street when gasoline spilled from the overturned truck. A forklift was used to lift the spilled lumber back on the truck.

Court Critical Of Probation Rebels, Chiefs

Both sides in the civil war that has shaken the County Probation Department were taken to task last week by the seven judges of the county Superior Court.

In a report prepared following an extensive investigation, the judges said they cannot "approve or condone" the methods used by the insurgent employees in their revolt against the department administration.

But, at the same time, the judges found that there were extenuating circumstances that contributed to the "emotional unrest and discontent which brought about this action."

Among these circumstances, the report states, was "the absence of clearly defined and understood policies and procedures for the presentation and hearing of personnel grievances and complaints" and the failure of the administration to act promptly on the problems as they arose.

Deficiencies

"It is evident," the judges' report states, "that there are many serious deficiencies in the administrative and operational areas of the probation department. . . . It is imperative in order to obtain the efficient and effective operation of the department that immediate steps be taken by the chief probation officer to remedy these deficiencies and to solve the problems which have been permitted to develop."

The report recommends that the leaders of the revolt, Lino Beldi and Thomas Eblen, be reprimanded for their behavior in organizing a committee of employees that prepared a list of grievances against the administration. Such action has already been taken by the chief probation officer, Loren A. Beckley.

Reprimand

A reprimand was also urged by the judges for three other employees who admitted that they planned to get a miniature wire recorder to secretly record their conferences with Beckley. Beckley told the department's advisory board, the Juvenile Justice commission, Tuesday that he has also followed this course of action.

The judges noted that many members of the department staff submitted replies to a questionnaire circulated by the employee committee. Many of these replies, the judges said, were submitted "in good faith for the purpose of focusing attention on what they sincerely believed to be serious problems within the department and the hope of improving working conditions and the overall efficiency of the department."

"No retaliatory or discriminatory action is to be taken against any of the employees of the department for their participation in this affair," the judges ordered.

Beckley said Tuesday that he plans no action beyond the reprimands and that the case is closed as far as he is concerned. James Dennis, attorney for Beldi and Eblen and the three employees involved in the wire recorder case, read the judges' report Wednesday.

"The point of view of the employee committee is vindicated by the report," Dennis asserted. "It substantiates their claim that they were acting in the best interest of the county."

"It is most regrettable," the report states, "that the problems apparent in the Probation department were not presented and solved in a more orderly manner, without the disruption and emotional turmoil which has resulted. It is the firm intention of the judges of this court to make every effort to find an appropriate solution to the problems confronting the department and to seek continued improvement of its operational efficiency. In this effort we earnestly solicit the cooperation and assistance not only of those who have official responsibility in this important area of county government, but likewise of those whose activities are closely related."

Reprimand For Rebels Is Ordered

The two leaders of the recent insurrection in the County Probation Department have been given the mildest possible punishment—an official reprimand by the department head, Chief Probation Officer Loren A. Beckley.

Not Happy

But they are not happy about it.

The revolt leaders, Thomas Eblen and Lino Beldi, said through their attorney, James Dennis, that they will reply to Beckley's letters of reprimand, setting forth all the points on which they disagree with their boss.

Beckley reported to the Juvenile Justice commission last week that he has also reprimanded three other probation officers for attempting to spy on him with a miniature wire recorder.

Unbecoming Conduct

A list of charges against the five employees were read by Beckley at a meeting of the commission last month. In the case of Beldi and Eblen, he accused them of "insubordination and conduct unbecoming public employees." It was agreed at that time that public hearings would be held.

But at the meeting Tuesday Beckley said he had decided on an administrative action—reprimand—rather than other action which would require public hearings. After the meeting Beckley said the reprimands closed the case as far as he was concerned.

"I felt through this I could accomplish the purposes I felt were necessary," the department head said. "I believe I can maintain discipline and control in the department and nothing would be gained from punitive action just for the sake of punishment."

Beckley said he plans no demotions or reassignments as a result of the fight he has had with his staff. He said he had decided by the time of the December meeting that reprimand would be his only disciplinary action.

After the meeting, Dennis said his clients, Eblen and Beldi, "emphatically" deny the charges made against them by Beckley. "Beckley made statements that just weren't true," Dennis asserted. "His statement contained his interpretations and no evidence was presented to sustain those charges."

Beldi and Eblen organized a committee, called the Committee for Better Probation Services in San Mateo county, which prepared a 1400-page dossier of complaints against Beckley's administration.

"Everything they did was justified under the circumstances," Dennis declared. "They feel they performed a definite public service. They believe their responsibility is to the people of San Mateo county and not to any one person."

"They deny that they are guilty of any conduct unbecoming public employees. Dennis said it is uncertain whether Beldi and Eblen will insist on a hearing to fight the official reprimand. The attorney also noted that, although the commission had instructed Beckley to reduce the charges to writing and submit them to his clients, he has not done so. It was explained that this was not done because of the decision to take an administrative action, rather than another action, such as dismissal, which would have been processed through the commission.

At Cow Palace

BULLSEYE FOR SPORTS AND BOAT SHOW—Sports Queen Penny Lovelock draws a bead on the National Sports and Boat show at the San Mateo Cow Palace, February 1 through 10, with an imported automatic Italian gun from Brescia, Italy. The gun which has a telescopic lens will be featured in the mammoth gun exhibit as part of the Italian government display at the show.

Supervisors Blast Party Label Plan

The four Republicans and one Democrat on the San Mateo county Board of Supervisors gave a bipartisan razzberry Saturday to the man who would take away their nonpartisan status.

The object of their scorn is Assemblyman Philip Burton, a San Francisco Democrat, who said he will introduce a bill Monday to require party labels on all candidates for county boards of supervisors.

He should not be surprised at the reaction, however, inasmuch as he predicted that Republicans would fight the measure. He said he felt he could get the bill through the Democratic-controlled legislature, though.

Supervisor Edward R. McDonald of Millbrae, the lone Democrat on the local board, joined his fellow Republican members in blasting the Burton plan.

"These people in the legislature should mind their own business," McDonald declared. "He and the other members said that, as individuals, they would favor the board taking a vigorous stand in opposition to the measure."

Each of the Republican members denied that Burton's statement that "non-partisan government is a fiction by which GOP local office holders have maintained themselves in power in heavy Democratic areas" applied to them.

Their comments: Chairman Alvin S. Hatch of Half Moon Bay: "All county employees should be nonpartisan and should be selected for their ability and not because they belong to any particular party."

"I feel that most people in the county either know something about me personally or through information they have received. They voted for me because they thought I was the best man, not because of my politics."

"I would say that no partisan decisions have been made by the board during my tenure. We vote according to what we think is best for the county. As many Democrats as Republicans have been appointed to office during my tenure. I never look to see what party they belong to. I am not in favor of party politics in county government."

Supervisor William M. Werder of Redwood City: "In my opinion the gentleman is just about one thousand per cent off base. Whether county representatives are Democratic or Republican is completely irrelevant as far as good county government is concerned."

"Most of my Democratic friends, both political and non-political, would heartily disagree with this gentleman's theories."

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald of San Bruno: "I think it shows he has no idea of county government at all. I can't remember one issue that has come up that was partisan politics."

"Take the redistricting issue, for example. A lot of the ideas that we accepted were submitted by the Democrats. I didn't reject them because of that."

"The proposal certainly wouldn't do anything good for county government."

Richard Carpenter, executive officer and chief counsel for the League of California Cities, Friday called the proposal "the surest way to return California to the political bossism that prevailed in the state 60 years ago."

HMB Moves For State College

Moving into high gear in a campaign to locate a new San Mateo county state college on the coastside, Mayor John L. Carter of Half Moon Bay Tuesday announced he will name a committee of civic leaders to select one of several possible sites near the city for the new college.

Carter said when he and Councilman Elbert Fernandez recently toured the area several sites in excess of 300 acres were found that would be suitable for the new state college.

One of the sites mentioned at Tuesday's council meeting was on a 900 acre ranch immediately south of city limits. Because the owner has no immediate relatives in this country, it was pointed out that he might be willing to donate a college site or sell it at a favorable price to the state.

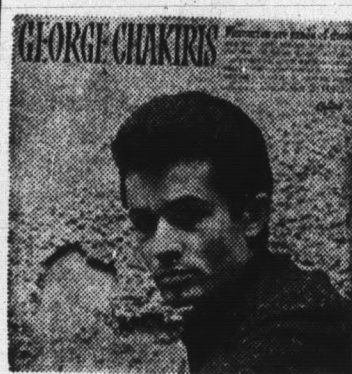

To be included in the investigating committee will be representatives of the local Lions club and Chamber of Commerce.

Letters pointing out the available land in the Half Moon Bay area will be sent to State Senator Richard Dolwig, Assemblymen Leo J. Ryan and Carl Britschgi and the state board of education.

One possible difficulty towards securing the ranch south of the city pointed out Tuesday was that it has an oil lease on it.

Carter reported that mayors throughout the county have discussed possible sites, and it has been agreed that when one site is selected all cities will join together to bring the college into the county.

Grant Civil Service for Probation

Nearly half of the professional positions in the county Probation department are to be given civil service status.

Chief Probation Officer Loren A. Beckley informed the county Juvenile Justice commission last Tuesday the process of transferring all jobs at Hillcrest juvenile hall and Glenwood ranch from unclassified to classified status is being undertaken.

Beckley said it is being done on the basis of an opinion rendered by District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson.

Some 45 employees, slightly less than half the total professional staff, are affected, the department head said.

Beckley told the commission that, although the employees cannot be blanketed into civil service and will have to take examinations, the employees should be blanketed into civil service but they need feel no "major anxiety" about their jobs. Beckley said all concerned are agreed that cannot be because of a legal technicality.

Beckley told the commission that he has been assured by William Goggin, county personnel director, that the examining process will not be as extensive as the usual civil service examination.

Lily of Valley Is Week's Plant

Convallaria majalis, popularly known as "Lily of the Valley" is the Plant of the Week. Grown from nursery supplied pips by Miss Elizabeth Margery Mason in her Shoreview home on South Kingston street, these pips were in bloom within a month.

The Lily of the valley is found wild in Eurasia and in the higher mountain areas from Virginia to South Carolina in the United States. They are hardy bulbs and though they truly do a much better job of flower production in the colder areas there are many local gardens with very acceptable flower producing plants. The unusually cold weather of last January increased both the quality and the quantity of flower spikes on outdoor grown plants in Peninsula gardens.

The Lily of the Valley is grown from pips, a raised bud with plenty of roots which forms along the horizontal rootstock. Local nurseries have pips, imported from Holland, such as used by Miss Mason. These pips, the only kind available in the trade, are harvested then placed in cold storage for three to four weeks before shipping. They were primarily grown for the greenhouse trade but enterprising home owners have found they bloom as well for the amateur as for the professional provided a few simple rules are followed.

The pips should be planted close together, four to six in a four-inch pot, about one and a half inches deep. The soil mixture should be a rich, humus-filled garden soil similar to that needed for African violets. Commercially prepared violet-soil does an excellent job. A grower or two reports that they use pure sand as a growing medium then pay special attention to watering and liquid feeding but this is a little complicated for most busy amateurs.

The pips should be kept in the dark for the first 10 days or two weeks. We pull a heavy brown grocery bag over the pot for the dark period. We then substitute a light paper bag for a few days to offer a gradual increase in light and to prevent leaf burn. The period of darkness increases the length of both leaves and stems. Commercial growers keep the temperature at 65 degrees but temperatures of the average home work well as witness Miss Mason's fine plants. Blooms may be expected within a month after planting.

After the plants have finished flowering, the drying bloom stalks can be cut off, the pips knocked out of the pot and shaken free of soil for planting in the garden. Lilies of the Valley are shade plants, their biggest preference is under trees where light but no sun reaches. Outdoors they need a particularly light, rich soil that is well drained but easily kept moist. Set the pips the same depth as they were in the pot but space them about four inches apart. Once planted do not disturb for four or five years. Once each year top-dress the planting with well aged cow manure or leaf mold.

Sunset recommends their use between camellias, rhododendrons or Lily of the Valley shrubs.

Make War On Scale Insects

One phase of tree care that must be accomplished before buds break in spring is dormant spraying to control scale insects, aphids and overwintering mites.

These are sap-sucking insects that can be dangerous only if their populations are allowed to get out of control. If the chemical attack against these pests is launched after buds break, the pests may be destroyed but the severe injury to the tree itself may result. In addition, the spray must be applied when temperatures are between 40 and 90 degrees, Fahrenheit.

Because tree men must really manpower and equipment for the pre-spring offensive to get as much accomplished as possible under the required conditions, the astute home owner will make arrangements as soon as possible to get his property covered.

Scale insects are most likely to infest elm, beech, apple, maple, oak and many other shade and fruit trees, as well as numerous ornamental shrubs. Oil sprays that thwart scale insects can be dangerous to certain trees sensitive to dormant applications. These include maple, beech, hickory, walnut and butternut trees. Later in the growing season, a safe insecticide, such as malathion, should be used on trees that react adversely to the oils. Heavy scale infestations result in sparse foliage, shriveled branches and death for heavily infested branches. Insect invasions of this kind, if ignored over a period of years, may spell death for woody ornamentals.

VANDALS HIT MARKET
The Westlake Market at 555 Knowles avenue, Daly City, reported to police Monday that an eight-foot-square plate glass window had been broken by vandals.

PLANT OF THE WEEK is the Lily of the valley as grown by Miss Elizabeth Margery Mason in her Shoreview home. Pips that will produce blooms like this within a month are available at local nurseries now.

January Leads the Gardening Year

By IVA NEWMAN

January could easily be called the guiding month of the calendar year when it comes to gardening on the Peninsula. January provides the gardener with some of the finest work days, weatherwise of the whole year, clear, sunny yet crisp and cool. It also provides some of the most important of the annual gardening chores.

Most plants reach their greatest degree of dormancy in January, even those that are flowering such as the camellia. Re-arranging existing plants suffer less damage when dug and replanted when they are dormant or near-dormant making this month an ideal time for this chore.

Many of us had camellias and rhododendrons that suffered foliage burns during the warm days of last July and August. Now is the time to relocate these plants to a more suitable location or if that is not possible, erect an attractive sun shade. Posts can be sunk with a minimum of damage to the roots and should a branch be broken, it can be used for indoor decoration. The roots on both camellias and rhododendrons are usually so matted together it is no trick to lift even a good sized plant with its roots intact. This means that little or no top pruning will be necessary for these plants. However, where the root ball is too large to be handled and roots must be cut to plant in balance and to lessen the work of the remaining roots. Frequently a plant seems unhappy in its new location because the top was not cut back to compensate for the loss of roots.

Dig Dahlias
Dahlia tubers should be dug now. Those of you who garden at the edge of an undeveloped area, as we do, will find gophers and field mice trying to make their meals on your prized tubers. If these are left in the ground they may all be eaten before next planting season. Some of the professional dahlia growers advocate amateurs any soil clinging to the tubers be left on and the tubers be stored this way. We haven't liked this method as we must store our tubers in the garage and the soil dries up things considerably. We hose the soil off our tubers right after they are dug, then we place the tubers in ventilated cartons and cover them with damp peat moss. The boxes are then hung from the rafters. We are careful to label every clump with the variety name and if we have time we like to write the name on the tubers with a marking pen in addition to the label which is wired to the stalk.

Aerify Lawn
One of the pleasantest chores for January is aerifying the lawn. This good gardening deed will pay handsome dividends for the full year ahead. Buy or rent a hollow tined fork, if you don't already own one. Get the kind that brings up small cores of earth so that three to five-inch holes are left in the sod. The cores should be gathered up and placed on the compost after each aerifying spread so a sudden rain won't mat them into the grass.

Lawn scientists have found that many lawn fungus diseases such as brown patch can be stopped and cured by the simple expedient of spiking the area so more water can penetrate to the roots of the grass. Older, European trained gardeners, watch the turf carefully when they mow and mark each brown spot when it is scarcely as big as a dollar. When the mowing is finished they are back at these spots with an aerifying fork or even an ordinary spading fork. When a spading fork is used be sure to wiggle it back and forth several times to make a good hole. One gardener we know keeps the hose running as he works and as he makes each hole he moves the hose over to fill it up and saturate the soil. He always has a beautiful lawn.

These professional gardeners who have to maintain a fine healthy lawn have found that compacted soil, even in a very small area can cause trouble. They have found that once the grass has turned brown and matted down water runs across it and does not penetrate the soil. When the soil dries the brown spot gets bigger and bigger. "Plugging" or aerifying puts the water down into the soil about the roots. If it is done soon enough the roots will still be alive and will send up new top growth.

Fertilizing the lawn in January also pays dividends in a better greener lawn when the weather warms up. Plant food during the cool months encourages the spreading of the stolons (underground method of spreading) characteristic of the growth habit of Blue Grasses which are a staple ingredient of most fine lawn grass mixtures. January is not a good month to start a new lawn as seed is too slow to germinate due to the cold weather.

Freshen Soil
Freshening or revitalizing the soil is another very pleasant January chore. All our western soil needs fairly regular additions of humus material to keep it fertile and productive. The average soil in Peninsula gardens from sandy loam to adobe is very "diggable" during the cool, sunny days of January. Earlier rains have softened it and the period between rains has let it drain until it slides off the spade easily and cleanly. Plants are resting so working around the roots is not so

Tips on Pruning Shade Trees Told

Shade trees occasionally develop branches that are detrimental to their health and usefulness. If these branches are detected and removed while they are small, the trees will be more attractive and pruning costs can be held to a minimum.

Listed below are a number of undesirable branch conditions the National Arborist association suggests we look for and correct.

1—Branches that have developed from larger limbs and are growing more or less horizontally toward the center of the tree. Usually such branches eventually die from lack of light; if they survive, almost surely they will cross and rub against other branches thereby causing injurious wounds.

2—Branches growing so nearly parallel to the parent stem that a narrow-angled, V-shaped crotch is formed. Such branch crotches are weak structurally, and are likely to split during wind and rain storms. This can result in irreparable damage to the tree.

3—Sprouts that develop at the base of the tree's trunk. The bushy appearance such sprouts give the tree generally is undesirable in landscape plantings, and they use nourishment needed in the upper parts of the tree.

4—Low-growing, drooping branches. These tend to shade out grass, interfere with normal use of the lawn area around the tree, generally, are weak and often break in storms.

5—Branches that cross and rub against larger limbs or the central stem in wind sway. Bark and wood fibres are worn away by this rubbing, the branch stems are weakened, and often unsightly ridges of callus growth develop around the edges of the wounds. Disease and decay fungi may enter the tree through the exposed wood.

6—Branches that are growing toward, or are likely to be blown against, overhead electric service or telephone lines. If such branches are close to wires, the pruning is best left for professional attention. Accidental contact with the wires could be extremely dangerous.

7—Secondary leader. When the terminal leader dies, especially in upright evergreens and occasionally in deciduous trees, several of the top branches may begin developing as leaders. To retain the characteristic shape of the tree, all but one of these leaders should be cut back to a lateral twig.

8—All dead or broken branches. Such branches are unsightly, injurious to the tree and, if large, are a hazard to life and property.

The Dahlia Is for the Particular

Particular gardeners who take pride in having the finest varieties as well as the finest plants will find the 1963 stock of dahlia tubers being displayed now in local nurseries.

While it is too early by a couple of months to plant dahlia tubers out in the garden it is not too early to select the cream of this year's shipments. Going on display now are domestic tubers which are divisions of the better American grown varieties and imported tubers from Holland. These latter look different from the American grown tubers and they are, in Holland, due to the limited space dahlias are grown from cuttings. These imported dahlias show a stem with a cluster of little tubers about the base. They are just as sturdy in growth as our American grown tubers but they differ in flower variety. Nurserymen usually show colored pictures of the various types of blooms.

Also available at this time are domestic grown collarettes, a popular type for flower arranging. Flats of the Unwin bedding dahlias are available in some nurseries now. The tiny dwarf dahlia plants with the fine, big blooms, seen at the Fiesta the past two years will not be available until about the middle of July. These dwarf plants are propagated by cuttings when grown commercially and sold as growing plants in gallon cans. Gardeners desiring these dwarf dahlias can get in on the first shipments by placing their orders with their local nurseryman now.

Dr. Hoag Man of Year

Carl L. Hoag, M.D., was named as medicine's "Man of the Year" by the San Mateo County Medical society.

The presentation was made by Ernest W. Cleary, M.D., himself a recipient of the title in 1961. Dr. Hoag, a native of San Francisco, graduated from the University of California Medical school in 1912 and has practiced surgery in San Francisco and San Mateo until his recent retirement from full time activity.

His interest in the community is indicated by his long service with the Peninsula hospital and the Peninsula Memorial Blood bank. A founder of both of these institutions, he still serves both in an executive capacity being a member of the board of directors of the hospital and a medical director of the blood bank.

May Rescind School Deal

The Superior Court was asked yesterday to rescind a transfer of school property that was approved last month by the county board of supervisors.

On the petition of Rodney Robertson, special counsel for the Bayshore Elementary school district, Superior Court Judge Wayne R. Millington scheduled a hearing for 10 a.m. January 30.

Despite the opposition of the Bayshore district, the board approved the transfer of 75 lots of the Southern Hills subdivision to the Brisbane school district.

Residents of the two communities are at war on another issue having no direct connection with the school district fight. It involves an attempt by Brisbane to annex a large portion of Bayshore's industrial land.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

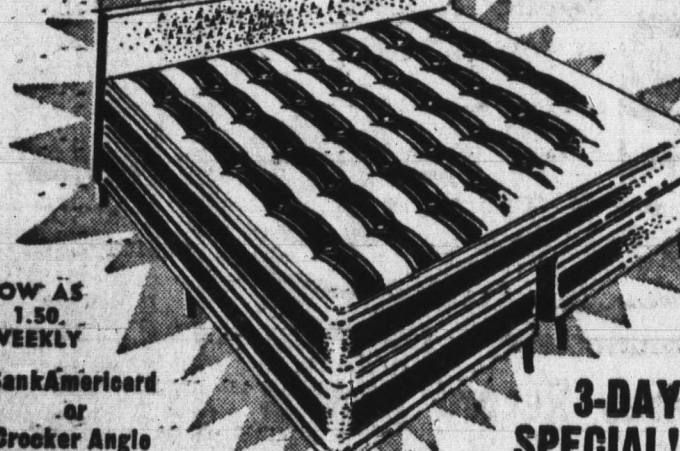

A regular quarterly dividend of fifty cents a share on Bank of America National Trust and Savings association capital stock has been declared by the bank's board of directors. The dividend, which is at the annual rate of $2 per share, is payable February 28 to shareholders of record February 1.

Roses, apples, pears, apricots and other deciduous fruit trees benefit from this dormant spraying. However, do not use lime sulphur on apricots as apricot trees are allergic to this material. Liquid formulations of dormant sprays are readily available at nurseries and garden supply stores. Read the directions carefully and follow them exactly.

The sunny hours of January are also a good time to apply one of the rather new liquid slug baits. These baits are rather time-consuming as they should be applied with a sprinkling can. Once you have used this liquid material and reaped its benefits in unmarred flowers and foliage you'll never fret about the time it takes to put it on.

Laguna Balks at Jefferson

Trustees of the Laguna Salada elementary school district want no unification with the Jefferson Union high school district — at least for the time being — they on district unification last week.

Robert T. Hale, the district's representative on a county wide committee studying school district unification, was instructed to vote "no" if a proposal comes up in the immediate future to unify Laguna Salada with the Jefferson district.

Agreeing that local school officials need more information as to how proposed unifications will affect local school financing, Hale was asked to obtain information from the county committee on the following unification proposals:

Unification between Jefferson and the four elementary school districts now within its boundaries.

Unification of Laguna Salada district by itself, which would mean that the local district would take over jurisdiction of the two high schools in Pacifica, Terra Nova and Oceana.

Unification of Laguna Salada with the South San Francisco unified district.

Unification of the San Bruno Park and Laguna Salada districts.

San Mateo Nursery Education Week Set

Nursery Education Week is being observed statewide this year from January 20 through January 26. This special observance is to focus attention on the education and work done by nursery schools.

The five co-operative nursery schools in south San Mateo county are joining in the observance by holding open houses. These co-operative nursery schools are non-sectarian, inter-racial and are members of adult education programs.

All these schools strive to provide the ideal nursery school setting for the children and a maximum opportunity for parents to take part in the early education and guidance of their children. An exchange of knowledge and ideas of child development with professionally trained teachers and directors is offered at minimum cost to the families.

The five schools are all members of the Peninsula Council of Parent Participation Nursery schools and the California State Council of Parent Participation Nursery schools. The schedule of open houses is as follows:

January 21 — First Congregational church play school, 2323 Euclid avenue, Redwood City, 9:30 to 11 a.m.

January 22 — Redwood Parents' Co-Operative Nursery school, Jefferson and Fallon left way, Redwood City, 9:30 to 11 a.m.

January 23 — Menlo-Atherton Nursery school, 802 Middle avenue, Menlo Park, 9:30 to 2:30.

January 24 — Beth-Jacob Co-Operative Nursery school, 1550 Alameda de las Pulgas, Redwood City, 9:30 to 11 a.m.

January 25 — Carlmont Parents' Nursery school, Arroyo ave.

New Home Course At S.M. College

A new course for women, "Homemaking 55", will be presented by the College of San Mateo evening college and the Parents at Large organization, beginning at the end of this month.

The series of eight meetings will be held in the Burlingame Recreation center, through May 15.

The series is designed to develop philosophy and skills in homemaking. Guest speakers will be from fields of home management, consumer education, household finance, interior decorating, psychology and medicine. There is an enrollment fee.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Marilyn Nyborg, 15 Kelton court, San Mateo, Mrs. Betty DeHallas, 1801 Palm, San Mateo or Mrs. Doreen Drew, 910 Haddon drive, San Mateo.

The Parents at Large group is an offshoot of pre-natal courses offered by the county. "Graduates" of these courses have extended their primary interest to other fields of homemaking and to engage also in social gatherings, such as fashion shows, picnics and teas or parties, according to Mrs. Nyborg, who with Mrs. DeHallas are the co-chairmen.

The touring group watched as the material was filtered and removed to three 10,000-gallon sediment tanks. The remaining solids stood for two hours and then were transferred to a 100,000-gallon tank for bacterial decomposition, which releases methane gas.

Because the organisms must be kept at a temperature of 95 degrees, the methane is bottled and used as fuel for the tanks' gas furnace.

Remaining water is treated with chlorine and is disposed of through an ocean outlet.
